

Bright Coffee Shop sales Analysis

31 March 2026

By Simeli T.P

CONTENT

Introduction

Revenue analysis

Total Revenue overview

Key Insights

Recommendations

Conclusion

Introduction

✓ This presentation analyses sales data from Bright Coffee Shop

.

✓ Purpose:

To understand:

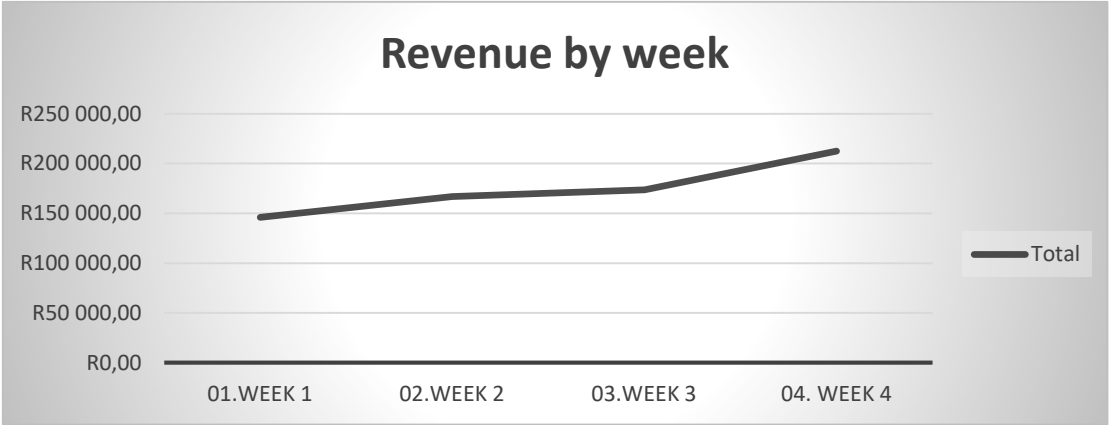

- Which products generate the most revenue
- What time of the day the store performs better
- Sales trends across products and time intervals
- Make recommendations for improving sales performance

Insights: Revenue peaks in June and is lowest in February, with week 4 consistently generating the highest sales while week 1 is the lowest. On a daily level, Monday has the highest revenue, while Saturday records the lowest. Overall, sales are stronger towards the end of the month, mid-year and on weekdays

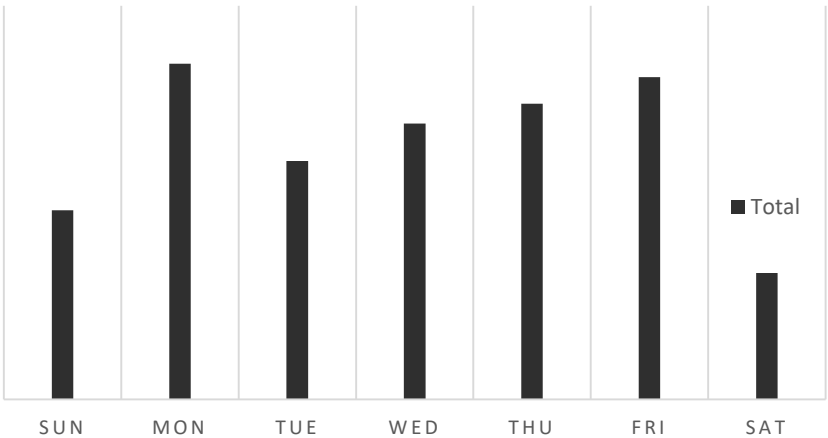

Revenue by month

Revenue by week

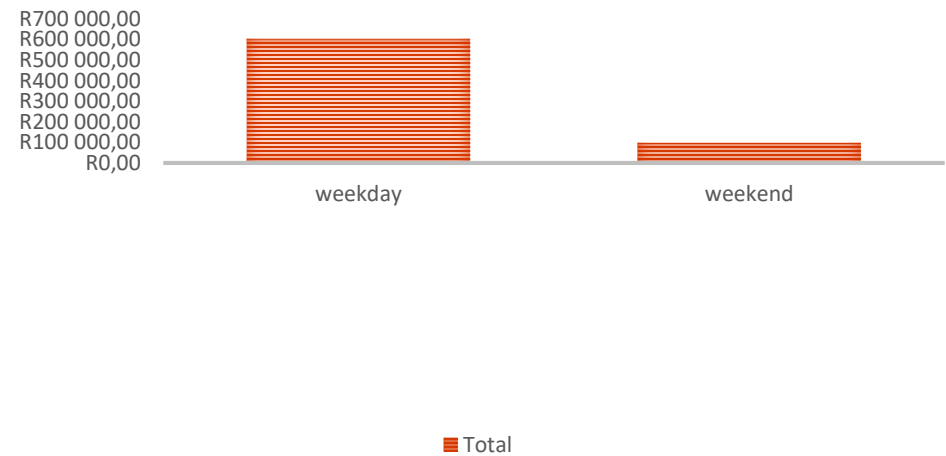

REVENUE BY DAY

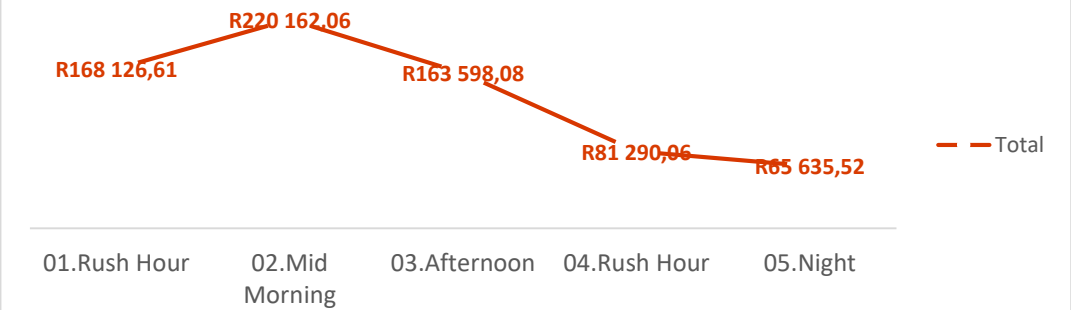

Insight: Revenue is significantly higher during weekdays compared to weekends, indicating that customer spend more money in the middle of the morning and less at night. This shows that peak business occurs during weekday mid-mornings. On the other hand Hell's Kitchen contributes the highest share of revenue at 34%, closely followed by the other stores location at 33%. This indicate a fairly balanced distribution of sales across location

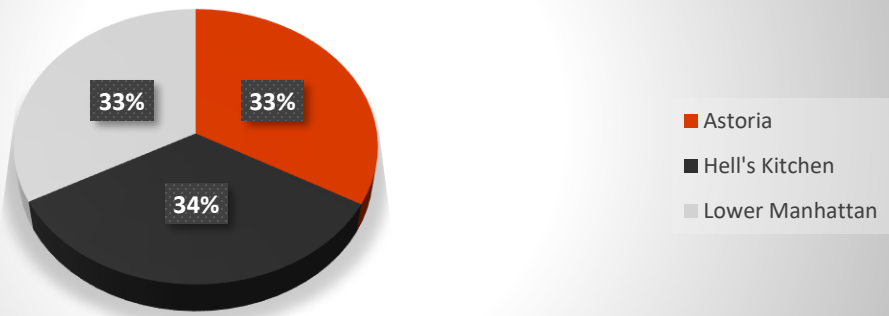

REVENUE BY DAY CLASSIFICATION

REVENUE BY TIME CLASSIFICATION

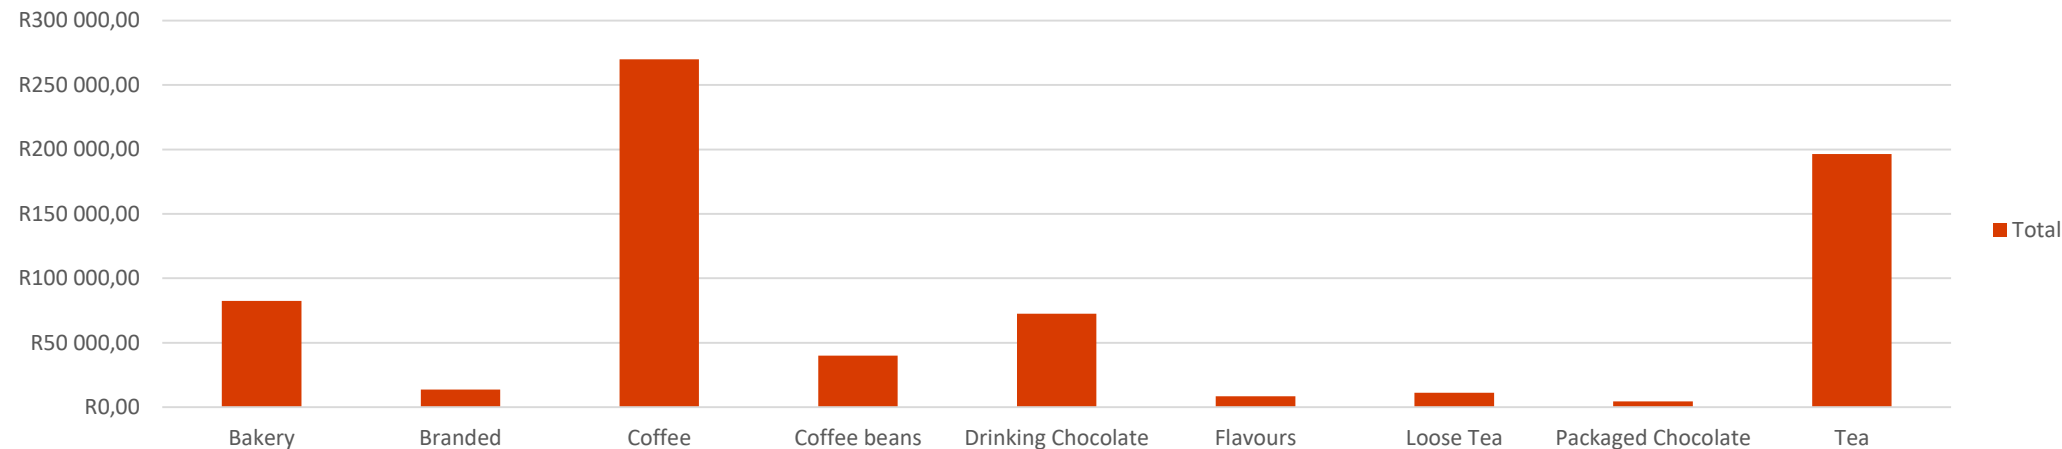

Revenue by store location

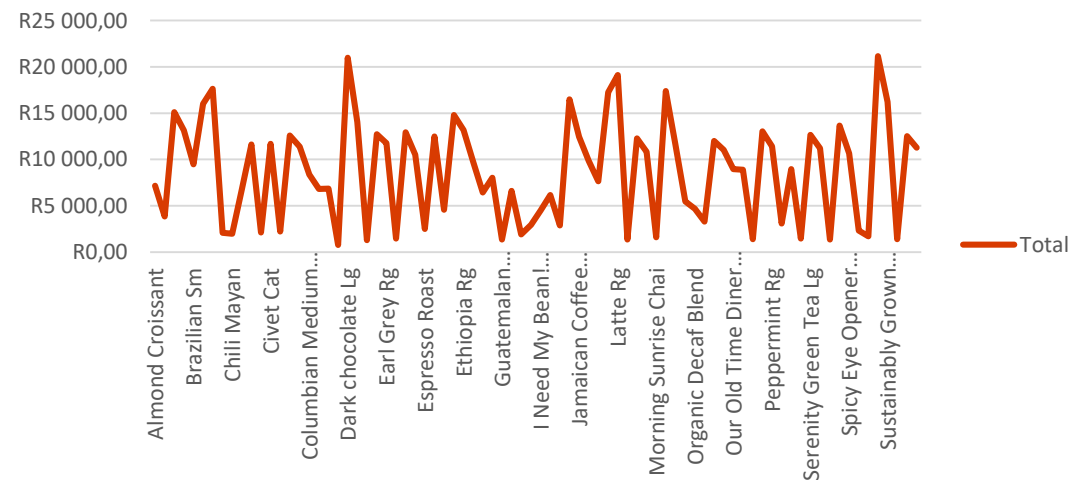

Insight: Revenue analysis shows coffee is the top performing product category, while packaged chocolate generates the lowest revenue. At a detailed level, Dark chocolate and sustainably Grown products contribute the most whereas Guatemalan and my Bean products record the lowest sales. In terms of the product type Barista Espresso leads in revenue. This indicate that core beverage products drive most of the revenue.

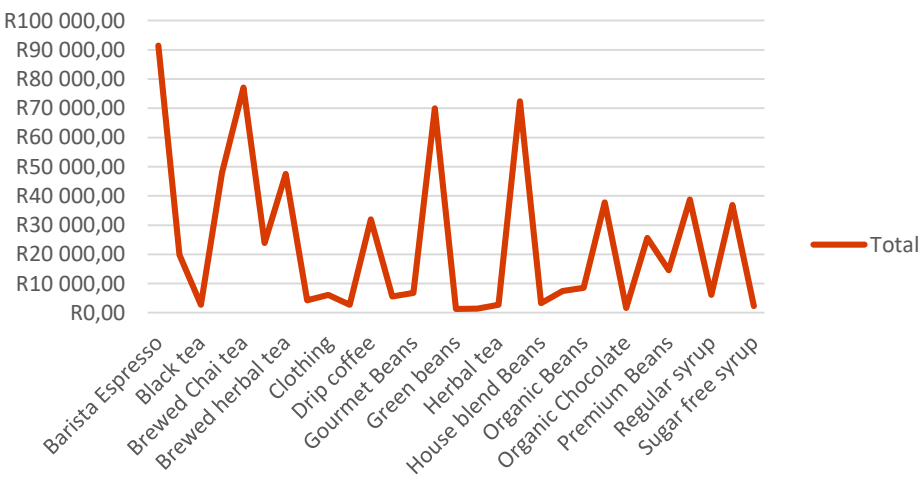

Revenue by product category

Revenue by Product detail

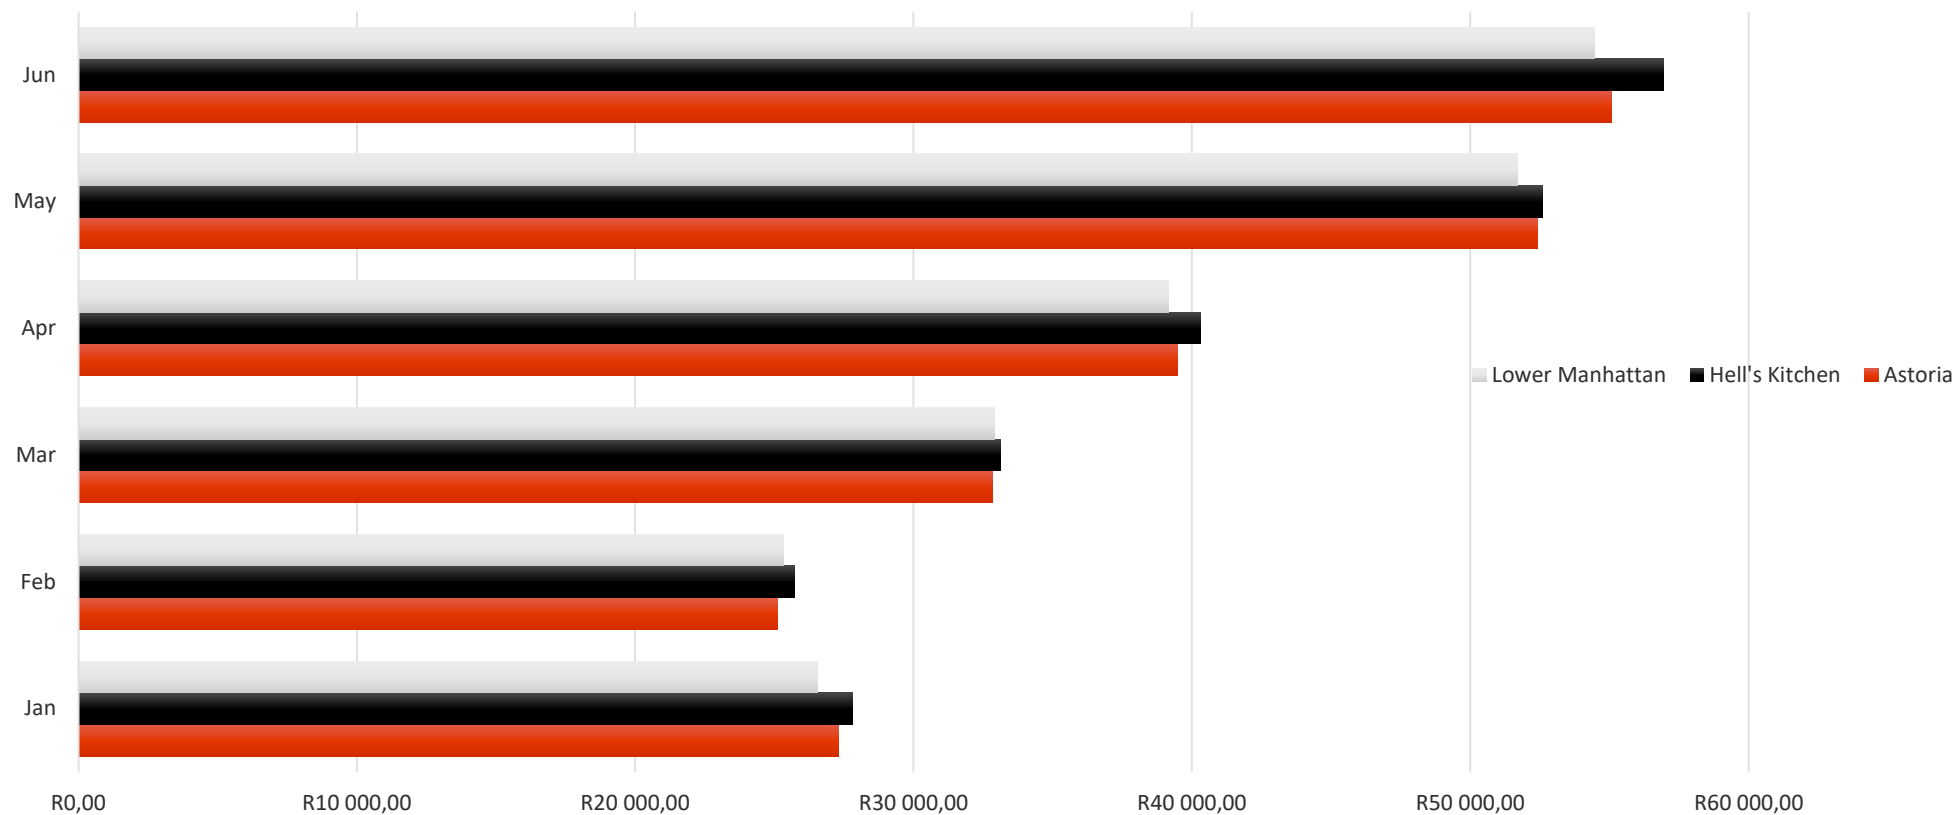

Revenue by product type

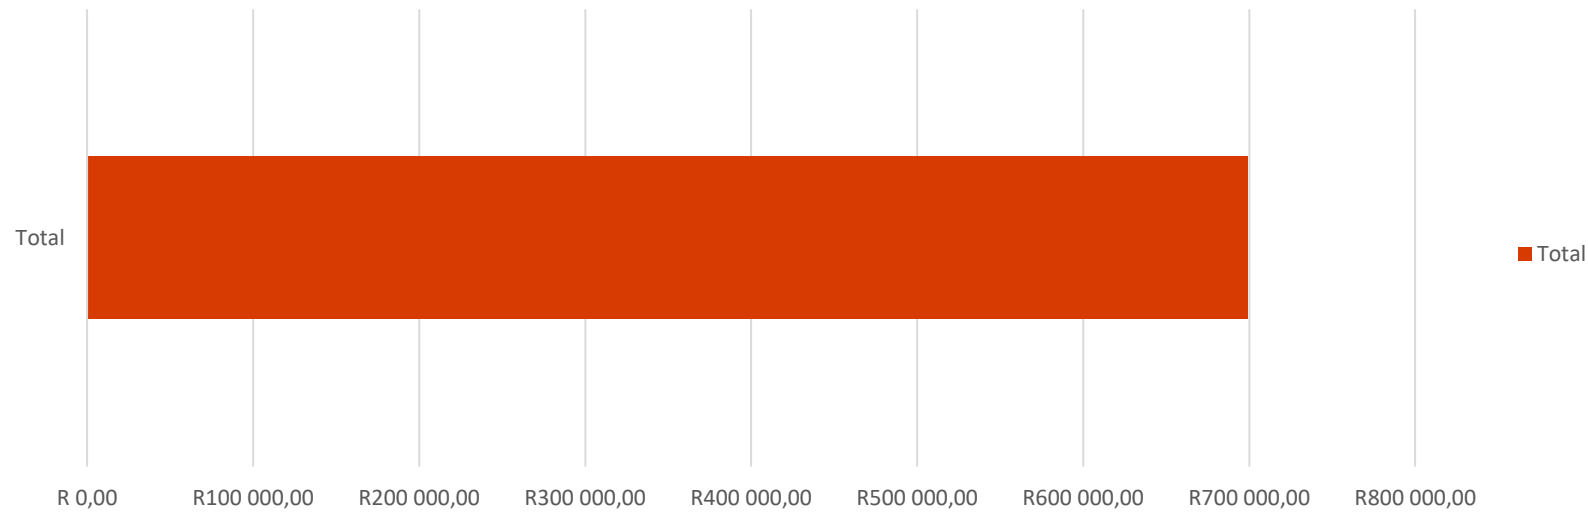

Insight: Hell's Kitchen consistently generates the highest revenue across all month. Lower Manhattan records the lowest revenue compared to other locations. Hell's Kitchen is a high performing location, likely with strong customer demand.

Revenue per month per store location

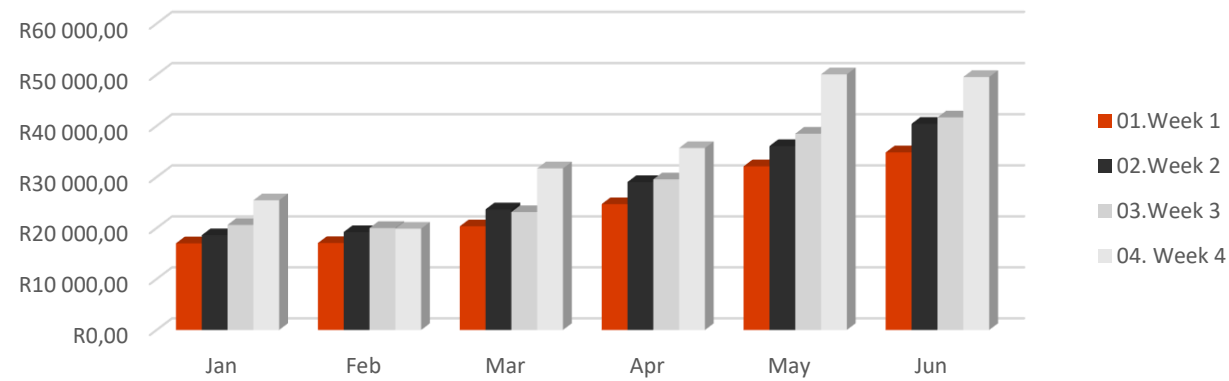

Insight: The total revenue of Bight Coffee Shop from January to June is R698,812,33. This provides a summary of performance across all products, store locations and time periods. Week 4 has the highest revenue across all months, while week one has the lowest revenue constantly in every month. Overall sales increase in May and June, showing a strong upward trend. This indicates that customers spend more towards the month end than at the beginning of the month.

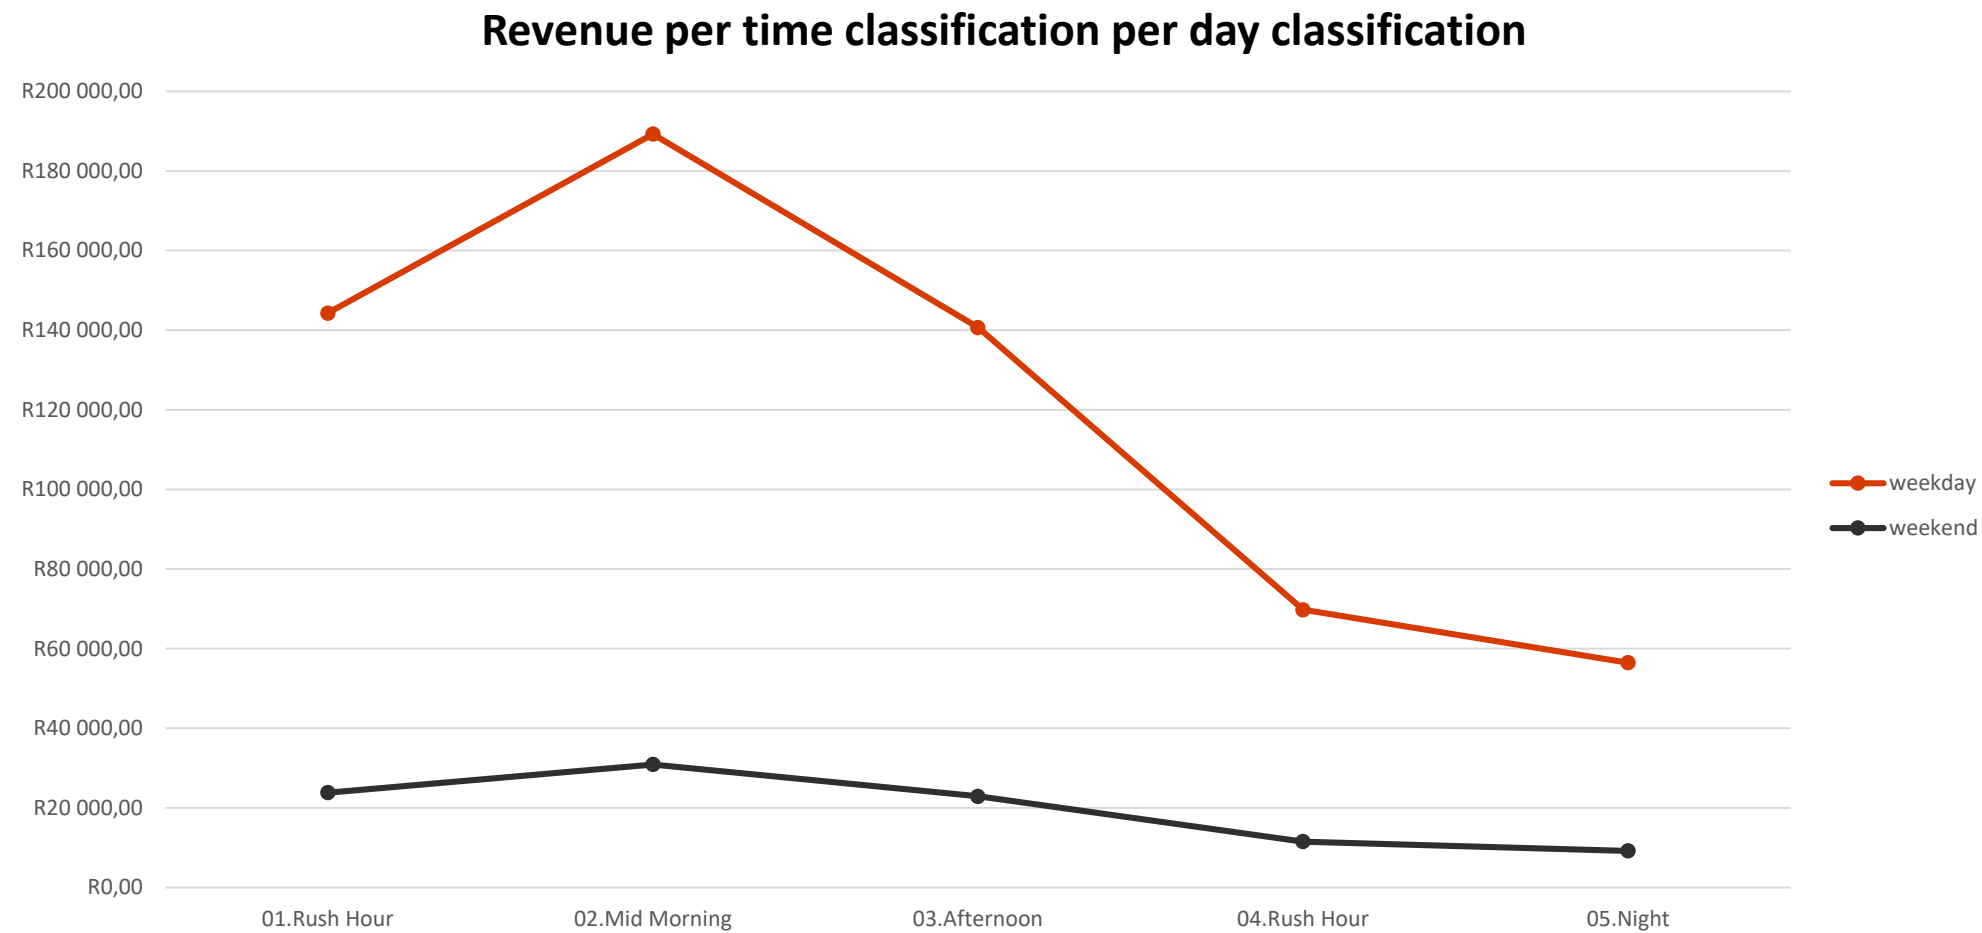

Total Revenue

Revenue per month per week

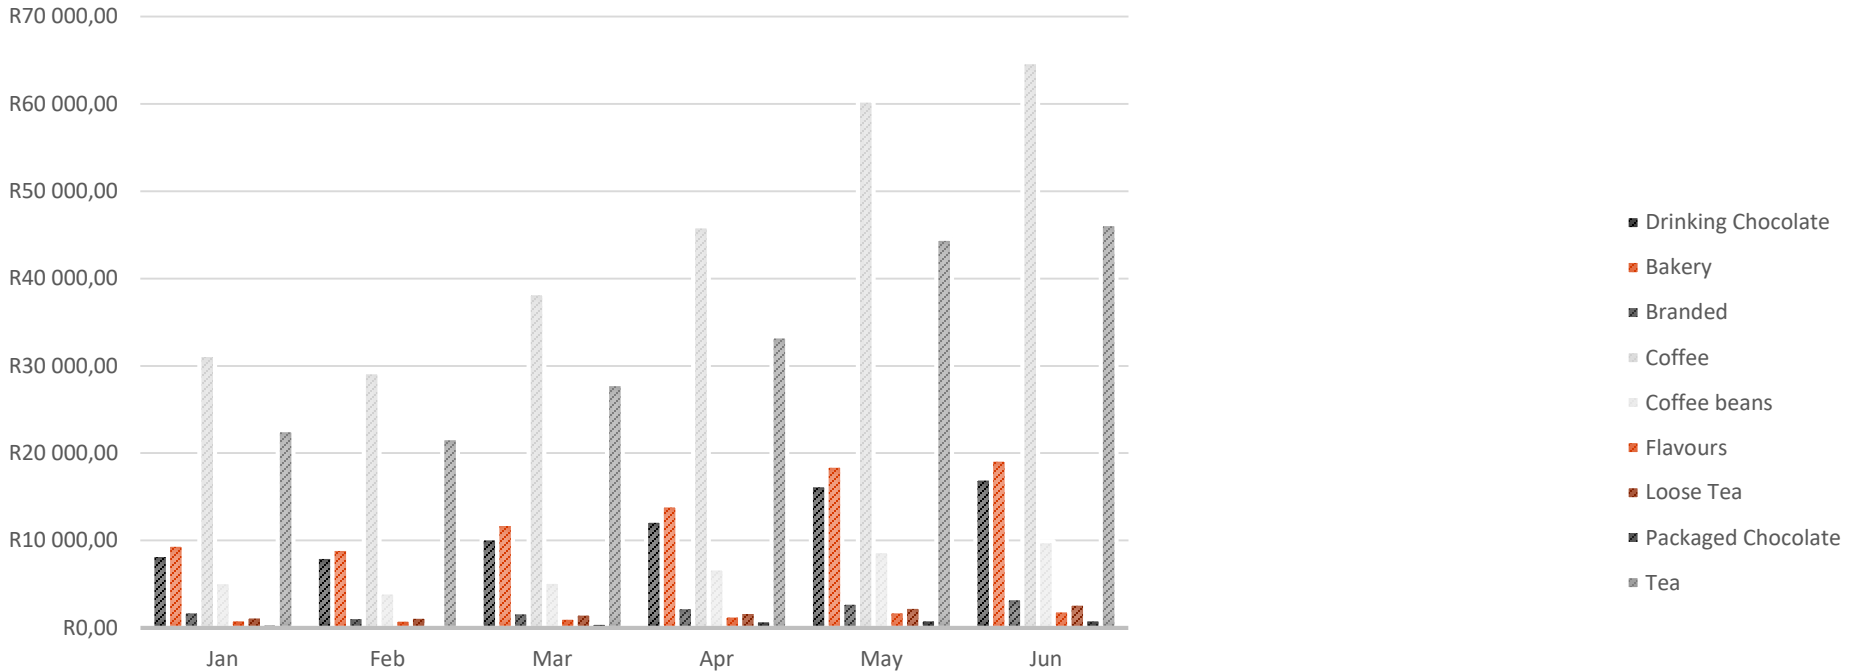

Insight: Weekdays are the busiest compared to weekends, indicating high customer activity during working days. Mid morning generates the most revenue, making it the peak time of the day for sales

Insight: Coffee generates the highest revenue across all months. Beverages like branded, flavours, and packaged chocolate generate lowest revenue compared to other product categories. This indicates that coffee is the core product and main driver of sales and that other products may be less popular .

REVENUE PER MONTH PER PRODUCT CATEGORY

Recommendations

- Boost low-performing periods by introducing promotions, discount and combo deals during weekends, nights and week 1 to increase customer traffic.
- Maximize peak time by ensuring that you have enough staff, stock and quick service during weekdays and mid-mornings to fully capture high demand.
- Focus on top products by continue promoting Coffee and Barista Espresso, as they are the main revenue drivers.
- Improve on low-performing products by marketing packaged chocolate, clothing and other low-selling items through bundles or special offers.
- Support weaker locations by implementing target promotions and customer experience improvement in lower-performing stores to boost sales.
- Leverage high-performing locations by making use of successful strategies from top locations like Hell's Kitchen in other stores.
- Do seasonal planning to prepare for increased demand in May and June with better stock management and marketing campaigns

THANK YOU!

CONTACT US AT:

Simeli Tshamano

bright.coffeeshop@email.com

083 528 1105

